Bandstand

Character Descriptions

Donny Novitski: 20s, gifted pianist and crooner; confident, boarding on arrogant; energetic but restless, frustrated, impulsive. When performing for a crowd, his charm always wins out.

Julia Troy: 20s, smart, nurturing, bookish. Unassuming but becomes quite alluring when performing in front of a crowd. Hides her vulnerability and grief with sly humor and a strong resolve. Beautiful singer with a strong voice.

Mrs. June Adams: 50s, Julia's mother. Natural mother with a wry sense of humor. A realist but extremely proud of her daughter. Pointed, wise, intuitive about people.

Jimmy Campbell: 20s, excellent saxophone player; a lawyer by trade who is analytical and calculating. Secretly attracted to Donny. Loyal but slow to trust. Quick wit and cautious.

Davy Zlatic: 20s-30s, excellent bass player. A big soul, boisterous, occasionally vulgar. An alcoholic by any other name, but a cheery one—a cheer that covers a deep-seated darkness. He has the size and command of a person who can do harm if he chose to.

Nick Radel: 20s-30s, excellent trumpet player. Generally irritated with the world and people. Sharp, cynical sense of humor. Channels his irritation into a fierce sense of self.

Wayne Wright: 20s-30s, excellent trombone player. Disciplined, precise, impatient—on his way to anxiety and compulsive behaviors. Loyal, lovable, caring but tries to disguise his need for connection.

Johnny Simpson: 20s-30s, a talented drummer. A simple soul, but he is not stupid or foolish—just slow on the uptake occasionally. Extremely loyal and trustworthy.

Ensemble: dancers, soldiers, singers, radio personalities & hosts, other characters

*Also casting understudies for all principal roles and swings for ensemble roles.

A Chorus Line

Character Descriptions

Zach: 40s, Director and choreographer of the show. Short and harsh on occasion but ultimately cares for the dancers. Non-singing role.

Larry: 20s-30s, Zach's assistant. Strong dancer. Straightforward, working to get the job done. Not particularly sympathetic; he's done this a lot.

Carrie Ferguson: 30s. A featured performer who is returning to the chorus line with younger and less experienced dancers. A bit desperate and willing to prove her worth to her ex, Zach.

Alan Deluca: 20s-30s. Straight, tough, full of machismo, proudly from the Bronx. Newlywed to Kristine

Kristine Urich: early 20s. Newlywed to Alan. Anxious when not dancing. Awkward and naïve.

Diana Morales: 20s. Sassy, tough, optimistic. Determined and athletic dancer from the Bronx. Latina.

Bobby Mills: 20s. A difficult childhood drove him to have a quick wit with a sharp tongue. Ostentatious.

Mark Anthony: late teens. Naïve and optimistic. Charming but inexperienced in this realm, even though he is a great dancer.

Judy Turner: 20s, Awkward when not dancing. Funny, nervous. Warm and genuine.

Mike Costa: 20s, Cocky but likeable. Flirty and experienced New Jersey tap dancer. Can be aggressive and determined.

Val Clark: 20s. Can be vulgar in speech but an excellent dancer. Brazen, direct, and newly "enhanced" with plastic surgery.

Bebe Benzenheimer: 20s. Insecure but covers it with her dance ability. Quiet, kind, vulnerable.

Richie Walters: 20s Enthusiastic and midwestern. Cool, funny, laid back and likable. Black-identifying.

Paul San Marco: late teens-early 20s. Introverted and insecure. Just starting to feel comfortable as a gay man and earn his parents' acceptance. From Spanish Harlem and friends with Diana.

Maggie Winslow: late teens-early 20s. A sweet, little sister from next door. A dreamer. Warm and kind.

Don Kerr: 20s-30s. Flirtatious, married, typical "guys' guy." Cocky and a bit bullheaded. All American.

Sheila Bryant: 30s. Confident and brassy despite being the oldest dancer on the line. A bit of a brat but ultimately sophisticated. Wry wit.

Gregory Gardener: 20s. Sassy, Jewish, gay, a smart-ass. Owns his East Side New York vibe.

ENSEMBLE: A number of cut dancers are featured as well.

*Also casting understudies for all principal roles and swings for ensemble roles.

Cinderella

Character Descriptions

Ella: 20s. Quiet and usually unnoticed, but opinionated, charismatic, passionate, beautiful, and funny. Idealistic and hopeful, sees the good in everyone. Blossoms into a confident woman.

Topher: 20s-30s. Misguided prince but wants to lead an important life. A brave and heroic man but lonely and unhappy. Lovely charm but not a flirt. Innocent and thoughtful if a bit goofy. Genuine, kindhearted, morally centered.

Jean-Michael: 20s-30s. Spirited, passionate, a peasant and an advocate for his class. Can be impetuous and fiery. Harbors a crush on Gabrielle even if they are of different social classes. Not taken seriously—though he should be.

Gabrielle: 20s-30s. Ella's stepsister and Madame's daughter. Though raised to love material goods and social status, she is much more interested in empathy, passion, wit, and advocacy. Completely aware that she doesn't fit in to the world she is destined to be a part of.

Charlotte: 20s-30s. Ella's stepsister and Madame's daughter. Self-centered, brazen, materialistic, loud, and bratty. Holds an extremely high opinion of herself (though it is deeply unwarranted). Always finds a way to be the center of attention.

Marie: 40s-50s. Local eccentric and beggar woman. Secretly a fairy godmother. Wise, warm, otherworldly, charming. She makes dreams come true for those who deserve it.

Madame: 50s. Ella's selfish stepmother. Epitome of vanity and fashion. A ravenous social climber who values wealth, status, and material wealth above all else. Unapologetically dismissive and sometimes cruel. Constantly scheming to climb the social ladder.

Sebastian: Lord Chancellor of the kingdom. He is a trusted advisor to Topher but devious and selfish. Using propaganda and dishonesty, he keeps Topher isolated and uninformed about his kingdom. Believes he deserves to rule the kingdom—but rules without regard for the lower class—or anyone but himself.

Lord Pinkleton: Lord Chancellor's right-hand man. Announces royal balls, banquets, and even the weather to the villagers.

Ensemble: Knights, Peasants, Serfs, Townspeople, Ladies & Gentlemen of the Court, Servants, etc.

*Also casting understudies for all principal roles and swings for ensemble roles.

An American in Paris
